"THE MOUNTAIN BOYS"

Jimmy Fidler in Hollywood

Hollywood.—Out of the past: Today's bright moment was a chat with one of my favorite stars of yesterday, Pauline Garon. Her member her in "Adam's Rib" and "Sonny" back in the days before the screen found a voice. She always brought to her roles a sparkle and a gaiety that sent me away from the theatre just a bit happier than I was when I entered. I don't think I ever missed one of her pictures.

I met her today on a set at Twentieth Century-Fox, no longer a star, but seemingly no less gay than she was when she was "top." And that is a tribute to her courage, for she has had troubles galore. After losing her stardom, she lost all of her savings. Nearly penniless, she gambled on recouping her screen fortunes in thin Europe and lost. When she came back from a year's work in English studios, she found herself forgotten. She couldn't even get extra work in the studios where she had formerly been a great star. To cap the climax, she contracted infantile paralysis, narrowly escaped death, and spent more than two years in a hospital.

Such a succession of disasters would crush the ordinary person, but Pauline, being anything but an ordinary person, seems to have brushed them aside. "I have a job in a business I love, and I have my health again," she told me with a laugh. "I am a woman to be envied—for I am really happy."

TROY'S STUDENTS END "PENNY FAMINE"

Students Are Returned to Circulation in Protest Against "Heddon Taxes"

Troy, N. Y., April 5.—(AP) —A penny famine was ended tonight as Renaissance Polytechnic Institute students after following protest of the city's supply of coins back, returning them to circulation in protest against "heddon taxes."

Armed with pennies obtained from a campus coin exchange, the students walked through the city, using them to pay for food and the cost of every purchase which campus leaders said represents the "heddon" of heddon taxes. The students in the manufacture and sale of any commodity.

First to buy a supply of coins was Dr. William H. Heddon, R. P. L. president, who asserted he thought it was "sensible" for the students to be "taxed."

Dr. Heddon's purchase of 10 cents was the copper coins and silver a card which made him No. 1 member of the campus "heddonists' slogan."

We put the ax to the heddon tax with the ax on the cash," Robert Baumann, president of the Renaissance under student government organization backing the experiment, said that more than 100 in pennies were turned into the first 10 minutes the cash was used. He estimated the cash was turned into the cash.

MOUNTAIN BOYS"

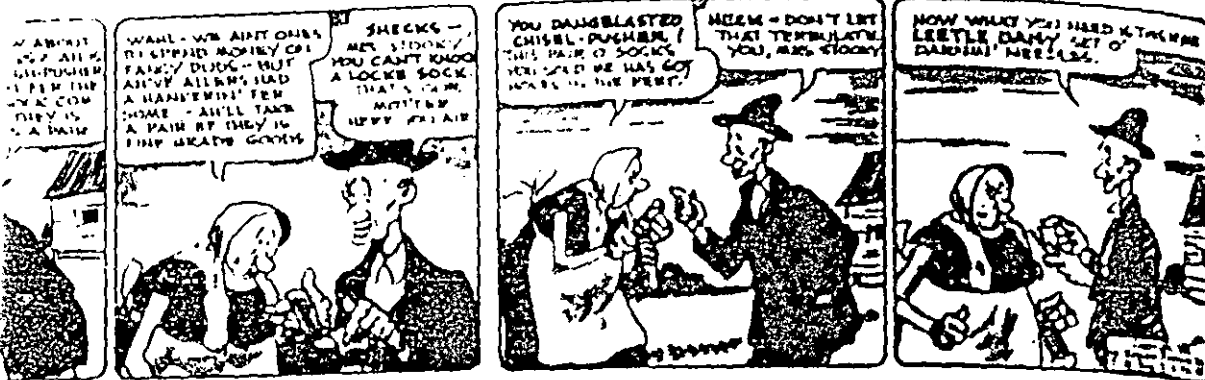

On a set this morning I watched the filming of a fight scene. "Sock," "Blitz," "Bow." Even from where I stood, not 50 feet from the scene of the action, it seemed that every punch would tear off the puncher's head. As a matter of fact, not one real blow was struck. Players who specialize in fight scenes have become so expert in faking their blows that most directors turn thumbs down on the real article. Jack La Rue, one of the principals in today's bout, tells me that the only time he ever had to replay a fight sequence, the director had demanded realism. La Rue broke his nose.

Two N.Y. State Police officers, a police sergeant and several students as Representatives of the State Police suddenly after collecting some of the city's supply of cash began to turning them in on a scale of "one for every" dollar value.
Armed with pictures obtained from a campus newspaper exchange the students walked from building to use them to pay one-fourth of the cost of every purchase which campus leaders said amounted to amount of "concealed" taxes included in the cash payment and sale of any commodities.

Cents Are Returned to Circulation in Protest Against "1944
don Taxes"

Troy, N. Y., April 3.—(AP) Troy's penny famine was ended tonight as Renaissance Institute students after collecting more of the city's supply of cents began returning them to circulation in protest against higher taxes.

Armed with pennies, obtained from a campaign to exchange the students called upon pledges to use them for their purchases. The campus leaders said represents the toughest of non-violent taxes in-valued in the manufacture and sale of any commodity.

Students say a list of the cents was the William W. Haverlee R. P. I. president who said ed he thought it was "laudable" for the students to be tax resisters.

The Hochschule purchased 10 cents of the copper coins and stored a list which made him No. 1 member of the campus tax resisters' league.

We got the list of the tax res-tants with the greatest in the list of the Hochschule president of the Renaissance Institute student protest organization. The tax resisters said that more than $100 in pennies were issued during the first 10 minutes the booth was open. He estimated about 20000 cents were sent to the Washington newspaper.

The Hochschule president said the list of the tax resisters was sent to the Hochschule president of the
test organization.

Shortly before 10 o'clock yesterday morning James A. Allgood, 29 years old, was buried under an avalanche of dirt and rock in the Burke and Thurman mine on the W. & John road, west of Soule. The injured man was rushed to St. John's hospital in the auto ambulance of the Cunningham Undertaking company, but he died shortly after reaching the hospital.

Mr. Gordon, of Soule Heights, Minn., Allgood was working in the drift of the mine as a shoveler. Without warning a great mass of dirt and rock fell from the roof, striking Allgood squarely and entirely covering him. Mr. Gordon escaped with a few

World rescuing the embattled workman. Although another fall of dirt and rock might bury the workers at any minute, they bravely continued the work of rescuing the fallen worker. When Allgood was taken from under the mass of debris the war con-last long, send for my wife and child. I want to see them and bid them good-bye before I go," were the words spoken by Allgood after being taken from under the mass of dirt. At intervals before reaching the hospital he would call for "Grace," his wife.

Allgood lived long enough to see his wife and child and bid them good-bye. The parting was pathetic in the extreme, and the young wife was heart-broken. The child, 1 year old, is too young to realize its loss. Allgood was conscious to the last and bore his suffering with heroic fortitude. Although his mangled body caused him intense agony the injured man uttered no complaint. Holding his wife's hand and looking into her face and that of his child, Allgood silently passed away.

He Was Frightfully Mangled

Owing to the nature of his injuries it seems wonderful that Allgood was not instantly killed. His left leg and arm were broken in several places and the bones protruded through the flesh. In addition to these frightful injuries, Allgood had sustained internal injuries and there was no hope of his recovery.

Coroner E. H. Baird of Webb City held an inquest at 8 o'clock last night in the office of the Myall Undertaking company. After hearing the evidence he decided that death was due to an accident.

Funeral services for James Allgood, who was killed in the Thurman mine west of Joplin yesterday morning, will be held from the residence at Thirteenth and Roosevelt streets at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The body will be taken to Carl Junction for burial.

All good friends and family gathered here for the funeral of William J. Allgood who was killed on the Burke Thursday morning. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock in the family residence at Third and Oak and Roosevelt street. A large number of friends and neighbors followed the casket to the home of the body was taken to Carl Junction for burial.

- f. Lewis W. Allgood: born in Ind. in 1817, married Mary Moore in Orange Co. Ind. 21 February 1839. They moved to Clay Co. Ill. and in the 1850 Fed. census were listed with the following children: Martha, Samuel and Francis Marion.
- g. Alexander Allgood lived in St. Louis, Mo. His wife was named Marie (____). They had at least one daughter, Cora, who married Charles James. The James family had two children, Charles Jr. and Letha.
- h. Elizabeth Allgood: born 1828 in Indiana; married 31 January 1849 to Ethan Blalock. She died in Bentonville, Ark.; they had one son, John Wesley Blalock. (Note: Elizabeth and Elkanon Blalock lived in the household of James Smith at the time of the 1850 census).

Continuing the children of Wm. Allgood and his first wife:-

- 2. Lucy Allgood: born in 1786, probably in Mecklenburg Co. Va. She married Joshua Moore of Rowan Co. N.C., the son of George and Mary (____) Moore. In 1830 they moved from Rowan Co. to the home of Presley Allgood in Orange Co. Indiana. Before 1850 they settled in Clay Co. ILL., where they died: Lucy before 1870 and Joshua before 1880. They are buried in the Campground Cemetery at Xenia, Illinois.

The known children of Joshua and Lucy (Allgood) Moore are;

- a. Wm. Moore: died before 1850. On 21 February 1841, in Warren Co. Mo., he married Tabitha Boswell, daughter of Edward Boswell and his first wife, Sarah Marshall. Tabitha married, as his fourth wife, John Carlisle, who married as his second wife, Hannah Smith, daughter of James and Elizabeth (Allgood) Smith.
- b. Lucy S. Moore: born 4 September 1820 in Rowan Co. N.C. In 1853, in Clay Co. Ill., Lucy married Matthew Boswell, son of Edward Boswell and his first wife, Sarah Marshall. Lucy died 12 February 1911 in Centralia, Ill., and is buried in Campground Cemetery in Xenia, Ill.
 - a. John Boswell, their only son, married Mary Ellen Ellis, his distant cousin, also descended from Wm. Allgood. (John and Mary Ellen were the grandparents of Maryellen Sisson Leachman, who furnished this material).
- c. Joshua R. Moore: born 20 February 1823 in Rowan Co. N.C?; married
 - (1) 24 January 1847 in Orange Co. Ind., Rachel Colclasure. Married
 - (2) on October 3 1866 in Orange Co. Ind., Ann Boyd.

(Continuing the Children of Wm. Allgood and his first wife:)

3. Elizabeth Allgood: Was probably born in Mecklenburg Co. Va., about 1788. She married James Smith, the date and place not known, but it was probably about 1800 in Mecklenburg Co. They soon migrated to Prange Co. Ind., where some of their children were born. James Smith is listed on the census records for Orange Co. from 1820 through 1850. The Probate report of his Will, in Orange Co., was dated 25 February 1852, so his death evidently occurred ca 1851. The report named his widow, Elizabeth, as Administratrix, and the other heirs as: William, James, Martin, the heirs of Hannah Carlisle decd., the heirs of Sarah Totten, decd., Reuben and Anna Bunday. These names coincide with the following list of names of the children listed in the Family Bible of Presley Allgood as the names of his sister Elizabeth's children, thus proving the link between the Allgoods and the Smiths.

"The birthdates of the following children of James and Elizabeth (Allgood) Smith were recorded in the family Bible of Presley Allgood:"

a. William Smith:	born 4 December 1801
b. James Smith:	" 25 February 1804
c. Sally Smith:	" 9 July 1806
d. Martin Smith :	" 6 December 1808
e. Hannah Smith:	" 28 April 1812
f. Anna Smith:	" 19 March 1815
g. Polly Smith:	" 19 July 1817

4. Rebecca Allgood: born 3 May 1789 in Mecklenburg Co. Va.: married George Baity of Rowan Co. N.C. and died 26 December 1881 in Clay Co. Ill. They have a biographical sketch in the History of Wayne and Clay Counties of Illinois, (Globe, Chicago 1884). Others who have biographical sketches in this history are: Charles Ellis, who married Nancy Carlisle, and John Boswell, who married Mary Ellen Ellis.

died there in 1911. Their daughter Dona married a Carl Junction man, Bert Kirby, and moved to Carthage, Mo., where they lived the rest of their lives. Dona and Bert are buried in the Carl Junction Cemetery (Lot 323) today. Uncle Ike was a victim of rheumatism or a similar affliction, and was helpless during the last seven years of his life.

Uncle William Arthur Smith married Sarah Evelyn Pearson on April 3, 1877, at Columbus, Kansas; the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Waldrop at the Middaught Hotel. They began their married lives in Carl Junction where William was a telegraph operator for the Santa Fe Railway. Their two children, Clyde and Edith, were born there in 1888 and 1889. In 1891 they purchased an 80 acre tract a mile south and east of Waco, Mo., and lived there for some time. The children went to school in Carl Junction, then in Joplin, and Clyde later spent four years at the School of Mines at Rolla, Mo.

In January of 1897 William died suddenly of a "stroke" and was buried in the Carl Junction Cemetery. Very shortly thereafter a Mr. Gooch, William's brother-in-law, died, and his widow Alice and her two children, Floyd and Blanche, came to live with Sarah and her two, who were about the same ages as the Gooch children. (In the directory of Carl Junction businesses in 1896 Alice Gooch was listed as Milliner.) This arrangement continued until the marriage of Sarah to E. E. Piper in October 1901; the Gooch children then lived with their mother until her death in March 1904. Virginia Pearson, mother of Sarah and Alice, then took over the Gooch children for the next few years.

After two years in school at Rolla, William's son Clyde spent a few months working in a large mine in Mullun, Idaho, then returned to Rolla for two more years of school, after which he returned to the West where he spent the remainder of his life. He was married in Vancouver, Washington, in 1916 to Lucy E. Hegler, and she and their descendants still live in northern California. Clyde's sister Edith, his mother Sarah, and his grandmother Virginia Pearson, went to California shortly after he moved there, and remained there for the rest of their lives.

It is presumed that Grandfather James W. and Grandmother Elizabeth lived on their first farm just west of Webb City until they sold it in 1881. At this time Uncle Henry was thirty years old, had been married ten years and had three children, all daughters. Isaac was 28 and had been married two years; Martha was 26 and had been married four years; Alice was 21 and married four years; William was 19 and not married; John was 10 and still at home. It could have been at this period in their lives when the incident occurred Uncle William A. Smith married Sally Pearson, according to family records; we do not know when or where. We are still hopeful of obtaining some information from some of their descendants in California; we have been unsuccessful in finding either death or marriage facts concerning this couple locally. We did find recorded deeds of a few real estate transactions they made in the years 1888 through 1891. We do not know when they moved to California.

Isaac was 28 and had been married two years; Martha was 26 and had been married four years; Alice was 21 and married four years; William was 19 and probably not married; John was 10 and still at home. It could have been at this period in their lives when the incident that the late J. A. (Bert) Magoon told me about could have occurred. Bert always said that he remembered the day he saw the Smiths drive into Carl Junction for their first time; that they were in two covered wagons, Granddad driving one and Dad (John) the other, and on the seat beside Dad was a Remington .38 pistol. Bert never enlarged on this story and I never questioned him, so we do not know at exactly what time in their history this event occurred.

Jasper County Real Estate records show that after the sale of their original farm, Granddad bought and sold several lots in Carl Junction, so I think it is reasonable to assume that he and Elizabeth remained in Carl Junction, at least until her death in 1893. Our father, John Oscar, spent the rest of his life there; starting his adult life as a telegraph operator on the Frisco, then moving to the Bridge Repair crew in 1896. On August 31, 1898, at Columbus, Kansas, he was married to Nora Ellen Wright of Carl Junction, and their family of eight were all born and raised in Carl Junction. We do not know how long Dad worked for the Frisco; he was operating drilling rigs, prospecting for zinc and lead, when our memories of him begin. He worked some years for large mining companies who owned their own rigs; later he and his brother Ike formed a partnership known as the Smith Bros. Drilling Co. Dad was the driller, Ike the helper; they hauled their coal and other supplies with a team of horses

Dad was the driller, Ike the helper; they hauled their coal and other supplies with a team of horses consisting of a fat black mare named Fanny and a small sorrel horse named Dick. Dad owned the black and Uncle Ike the sorrel. I well remember the team, the drill rig on location at Lehigh; I guess because this was the first team of horses I had a chance to drive.

I also remember that at this time we lived in the two-story white house on South Roney St., next door to our maternal grandparents, William and Elizabeth Wright, and that Uncle Ike lived on the corner directly east of the Methodist Church. And one reason I feel sure of this is that I remember the stables where the two horses were kept, one at the place on South Roney and one at the place near the Methodist Church.

Until quite recently we were at a loss for some facts concerning Grandmother Elizabeth Smith; we knew the year of her death, but not where she died nor where she was buried. We searched several cemeteries without success; there just seemed to be no trail. Then, by sheer luck we found the answer in the Public Library in Carthage, Mo., where we had gone at the suggestion of Mrs. Colleen Belk, of Duenweg. Mrs. Belk has compiled records of tombstone inscriptions in several cemeteries in Jasper and surrounding counties, and in one of her books we found that Grandmother Elizabeth was buried in

And on the same lot are stones marking the burial places of "Mary I.: died 1873: 8 year old daughter of J.W. and E. Smith," of three Allgood infants and of the first child and husband of Aunt Alice, seven stones in a row. It was a rare thrill to suddenly stumble on to the answer that had baffled us so long, and to be able at last to look at and read the proof that here was the last resting place of our Grandmother Smith; we had searched for it so long that we had been tempted to give up. And to realize that for some eighty-four years it had been within fifteen miles of where most of my generation had grown up, and none of us had known of it. Inexcusable -- but true.

The Family Bible records as the youngest daughter of Elizabeth and James W. Smith, "Bell Merissa: born 1865 - died in childhood." The stone in Harmony Grove Cemetery engraved "Mary I., 8 year old daughter of J.W. and E." must undoubtedly be that of Bell Merissa, because of the dates of birth and death; there must have been a mistake or a misunderstanding between the stone-cutter and someone else about the name. We are told that many problems and questions arise over this same thing; many given names are mixed up and sometimes even surnames are questionable. So I think we can safely assume that Bell Merissa and Mary I. were the same person, at least until better proof comes along.

At the time of Grandmother Elizabeth's death, all her children were married and gone from home except John O., and he was a grown man making his own living. During this same year, 1893, a Mrs. Lucy Emily Ann Scott (nee Updike), was widowed by the death of her husband, George W. Scott of Medco, Mo., and left with a three-year-old son, Leonard Isaiah Scott. On July 3, 1895, James W. Smith of Joplin and Lucy Ann Scott of Smithfield were married at Carthage, Mo., by M. M. Hunter, J.P. On October 11, 1897, she purchased from W. S. Taylor and wife Jane, a 62-acre farm near Smithfield, for the sum of $1,200. This place was north of the Mound and close to a bend in Spring River; in those days the area was secluded, brushy, wooded and wild, with a reputation as a "hang-out" for outlaws. Some gory tales are told of happenings in the area, even in the old barn on the place. Here she, Granddad and Leonard lived until 1904, when she purchased the farm near Crestline, Kansas where they lived out the rest of their lives.

They were living on the farm at Crestline when my memories of them began; I recall some family trips, by team and wagon, to visit them when I was very young. One of these trips was made at a time when Spring River was in flood, and the water was over the bridge floor at Stump Ford crossing of the river. A man on horseback rode carefully across the bridge ahead of us, checking the condition of the bridge floor. We wonder today why anybody would take chances like that for just a Sunday visit to relatives -- but traveling today is not the problem it could be then.

Granddad Smith died on this farm in 1918, and was buried in the Carl Junction Cemetery (Lot 323 today). Grandmother Lucy continued living there until her death in 1927; she was buried in the Messer Cemetery south and east of Crestline, but we could not find a marker, so we do not know where in this cemetery. Upon the death of Grandmother Lucy, the farm passed on to Leonard, who continued to live there for some years after her death. But during the Depression in the early 30's he became unable to keep the taxes up-to-date, and in 1936 or 1937 the farm was sold to a Mr. Walkenshaw, who later sold it to Earl and Ina Bailey. Ina Bailey still lives there -- she is in her 90's -- but has deeded the farm to a near relative, Mr. Schultz. Mrs. Bailey taught school in the area for many years.

During Leonard's tenancy of the farm, one of his children, a twin, was burned to death in a fire that destroyed the old barn. Later, his eldest son Clifford was killed in an explosion at the local chemical plant, and a grandson lost his life in a car wreck just south of the town of Crestline. They had their share of tragedy. Leonard himself died in a Columbus, Kansas, hospital in 1968, at the age of 78 years. Some of his daughters and grandchildren still live in the Crestline area.

Since the six children of James Wilson and Elizabeth Smith settled in Missouri in 1873, their descendants have multiplied until today they number well over one hundred -- I gave up counting. Of these, most all live in or near Joplin, Carl Junction, Miami, Commerce, Picher, Pittsburg; with some in Texas, California and western Kansas. In the 1950's our second cousins, the Shore descendants, were known to be in Kansas, in Kansas City, in Illinois, Texas, Utah, Washington State, Washington, D.C., Missouri and North Carolina.

Some gory tales are told of happenings in the area, even in the old barn on the place. Here she, Granddad and Leonard lived until 1904, when she purchased the farm near Crestline, Kansas, where they lived out the rest of their lives.

They were living on the farm at Crestline when my memories of them began; I recall some family trips, by team and wagon, to visit them when I was very young. One of these trips was made at a time when Spring River was in flood, and the water was over the bridge floor at Stump Ford crossing of the river. A man on horseback rode carefully across the bridge ahead of us, checking the condition of the bridge floor. We wonder today why anybody would take chances like that for just a Sunday visit to relatives -- but traveling today is not the problem it could be then.

Granddad Smith died on this farm in 1918, and was buried in the Carl Junction Cemetery (Lot 323 today). Grandmother Lucy continued living there until her death in 1927; she was buried in the Messer Cemetery south and east of Crestline, but we could not find a marker, so we do not know where in this cemetery. Upon the death of Grandmother Lucy, the farm passed on to Leonard, who continued to live there for some years after her death. But during the Depression in the early 30's, he became unable to keep the taxes up-to-date, and in 1936 or 1937 the farm was sold to a Mr. Walkenshaw, who later sold it to Earl and Ina Bailey. Ina Bailey still lives there -- she is in her 90's -- but has deeded the farm to a near relative, Mr. Schultz. Mrs. Bailey taught school in the area for many years.

During Leonard's tenancy of the farm, one of his children, a twin, was burned to death in a fire that destroyed the old barn. Later, his eldest son Clifford was killed in an explosion at the local chemical plant, and a grandson lost his life in a car wreck just south of the town of Crestline. They had their share of tragedy. Leonard himself died in a Columbus, Kansas, hospital in 1968, at the age of 78 years. Some of his daughters and grandchildren still live in the Crestline area.

Since the six children of James Wilson and Elizabeth Smith settled in Missouri in 1873, their descendants have multiplied until today they number well over one hundred -- I gave up counting. Of these, most all live in or near Joplin, Carl Junction, Miami, Commerce, Picher, Pittsburg; with some in Texas, California and Western Kansas. In the 1950's our second cousins, the Shore descendants, were known to be in Kansas, in Kansas City, in Illinois, Texas, Utah, Washington state, Washington, D.C., Missouri and North Carolina.

Married Anna Maria Rank on March 6, 1792, at Bethania, N.C. (see the Bethania diary of that date). Seven children were baptised by the Moravian minister of Bethania. In the records of the first four baptisms they are called "members;" in the last three baptisms they are called "friends and neighbors," so it is evident that between 1800 and 1805 Peter Schor and his wife had ceased to belong to the Bethania congregation, though they remained on friendly terms. mer of South Schuyler, ended his Monday morning by drinking carbolic acid in the barn at his farm in Bainbridge township. The only move that could have prompted him this rash act was worry over financial affairs, and even at that he was fully involved and could easily have adjusted his outstanding debts. His tragic death came as a sad shock to his family and many friends; he was enjoying good health and seemingly appeared in good spirits.

On the morning of his death he aimed to haul a load of corn to town. He ate breakfast with his family, but left the table and went to the barn before the others had finished. His son, Ercll, had harnessed a team for his father before breakfast and when he followed his father to the barn he was puzzled to know why he didn't save the team out.

As he entered the barn he heard a groan and found his father lying unconscious with an empty bottle of carbolic acid lying near by. He was hurried to the house, but never regained consciousness and died before a physician could attend him.

Dr. Harvey, county coroner, was notified and an inquest was held at his home. A jury was impaneled with the following members: Henry Amrosius, Henry Miller, James Lashrook, E. C. Krohe, W. W. Dean and James C. Chord.

The verdict of the jury was that Robert Armstrong came to his death by carbolic acid, administered by his wife and with suicidal intent.

On Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock funeral services were conducted at the M. E. church in Rushville by Rev. Geo. F. McCumber; interment in the city cemetery.

Robert Armstrong, fourth son of Thomas and Kathryn (Ryan) Armstrong, was born on a farm in Bainbridge township, Schuyler county, Ill., August 9th, 1871.

On August 24, 1892, he was united in marriage to Miss Grace Steele. To his union were born ten children, two of them dying in infancy.

Robert's entire life has been lived in the vicinity of Rushville, and on Jan. 20, 1922, departed this life at his home in Bainbridge township, aged 50 years, 5 months and 14 days. His mother, three brothers and four sisters having preceded him in death several years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss his aged invalid father, Thomas Armstrong of Pleasantview, two brothers, Charles and Samuel Armstrong, of Rushville, his heart-broken companion and eight children, namely: Mrs. Earl Ackers of Centalla, Mo.; Mrs. Winile W. of Rushville; Mrs. Orb Zehnder of Chicago; Thomas of Coal Creek drainage, Ercll and Kathryn; Margurite and Raymond at home and three grandchildren. A father's smile, a companion's confidence and a neighbor's influence will be missed in the community where he grew to manhood.

Peter C. Jenkins began his life on a farm owned by his parents, less than a mile north of Pleasantview, now the Wm. D. Clemens place, June 12, 1851, and passed away at his home in Pleasantview Jan. 19, 1922, aged 70 years, 7 months and 7 days.

His parents, William and Mary Vance Jenkins, were descendants of sturdy, undaunted pioneers, who immigrated from Virginia among the early settlers of this county.

The subject of this sketch was named after his grandfather, Peter C. Vance, whom history records as an able, active pioneer in government building in county and state, he having served three terms as supervisor soon after county organization was affected and member of the state legislature long before civil war days.

He was of a family of seven children, all of whom have passed away excepting Mrs. Eliza Peters of Wilmington, Ill.

April 22, 1885, he was united in marriage to Miss Margaret E. Elser, and for nearly thirty-seven years the duties of life's journey have been shared and enjoyed by each, either in their younger days on the farm or in their quiet home life, since they came to this village, where they have resided since the fall of 1890.

In all the relations of life he was an honest, exemplary man, respected and esteemed by his neighbors and friends.

On Friday of the week before Thanksgiving he became ill, and his devoted wife tenderly cared for him until her health began to fail.

Her brother, Henry Elser, a railroad conductor, living in Charleston, learning of their affliction, came, and gave his undivided attention to restoring the health of his sister and alleviating the suffering of her husband. This example of self-sacrifice and love thru long hours, day after day for five weeks, was a kindness worthy of special note on this page.

Mrs. Elser's kind assistance to her stricken relatives is praise worthy and the husband, and brother whose spirit has taken its flight to a better world fully appreciated their able and timely assistance.

For several weeks death was very near him and he knew that the summons might come almost any day. And yet never was he more calm, as patiently he awaited the Master's call, which came at 7:17 Thursday evening, in the presence of those he loved best.

During the pastorate of Rev. Amos Hoffer, 1899, he was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal church, and lived a consistent Christian life.

Mrs. Teel Sprinkle was called to Monmouth Monday by the death of her father, J. T. Hunter.

for his unassuming, gentle manner, ripened into admiration of his christian fortitude in the days his life was slowly ebbing away.

He will be greatly missed in the home and in the community where his entire life was spent, and where his loyal friends held him in high esteem.

Others more distant in relationship, and very close in ties of friendship, who kept vigil nightly during his illness, mourn his passing.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Geo. F. McCumber, in the Methodist church; interment in the Messerer cemetery.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to thank the friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted me during the illness and death of my husband.

Margaret Jenkins.

R. F. Markell attended the funeral of Mrs. Roy Peyton, held in Beardstown, Sunday afternoon.

Patrick Mahoney, a native of Ireland and believed to have been the oldest man in Warren county, died last week at the home of his son-in-law, Maurice Bride, four miles south of Alexis. Mr. Mahoney was nearly 104 years of age, according to available records. He was born in County Cork, Ireland, on March 17, 1818, and for more than 60 years had made his home in and near the village of Alexis.

Benjamin Donovan, twenty-nine years old, employed on the farm of James Maslin, near Virginia, was instantly killed last Friday when the automobile he was driving overturned on the public highway.

Miss Melinda Hoelscher received word last week from her sister, Mrs. Florence Lyons of California, that her two daughters, Grace and Melinda, while coming from town were run down by an auto and seriously injured Monday. She had another letter saying Grace, whose skull was fractured had died on Wednesday, Jan.

18th and Melinda was not expected to live. The young ladies were about 23 and 21 years of age and were born and raised in this community, moving to California with their parents a few years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Lyons has the sympathy of their old friends and neighbors in their sad bereavement. Since going to California they lost one son, George, with heart trouble. Mrs. Lyons spent Christmas here with her sister, Miss Melinda Hoelscher, and had only been home about a week when the accident occurred.

ALLGOOD:

William Allgood, son of John and Mary (____) Allgood, born 1761, probably in Mecklenburg Co., Va. William died 7 October 1847 in Surry Co. N.C.

From the Revolutionary War pension application #S41408, we know that Wm. Allgood enlisted in Virginia, the place not shown, on 11 November 1776, for three years in Capt. Isaac Hicks' Company, Col. Screveb's Georgia Regiment; his service extended through September 1 1781. He was allowed a pension on application executed on February 13 1828, at which time he was 67 years old and a resident of Surry Co. N.C. In 1828, his wife and four daughters were living with him; their names are not given and no other family information is found in the papers on this claim.

Children of Wm. Allgood and his unknown first wife:

1. Presley Allgood: born about 1786 in Mecklenburg Co. Va.; married December 1809 in Surry Co. N.C., to Elizabeth Clark, daughter of Robert and Alcy Clark. Presley died in Orange Co. Ind. after 1830.

Children of Presley and Elizabeth (Clark) Allgood;

- a. Presley Allgood (the son) died 10 August 1833, in Orange Co. Ind.
- b. Robert C. Allgood: born 1811 in N.C.; died 24 December 1853 in Wayne Co. Ill. Married Hannah Buckhannon 18 December 1834 in Orange Co. Ind. Children: Presley, Elizabeth, Robert, Mergeris, Samuel, Lewis, John and Wm. The parents, Robert and Hannan, both died before 1858, and in that year Samuel Allgood (e) was appointed Guardian for these children, in Wayne Co. Ill.
- c. David C. Allgood: "Little is known of him. His sister-in-law referred to him in a letter and said he was getting helpless in his old age, and was nearly blind."
- d. Peter Allgood: Married Miss Katherine Anglen in Illinois; they had two daughters, Anna Mae and Sarah Ann. Sarah Ann married Mike Walsh; they had one child who died in infancy, followed by Peter's death.
- e. Samuel Allgood: born 12 October 1823, in Orange Co. Ind. Married Tilitha Anglen (Wilson) on 16 April 1867 in Marion Co. Ill. They lived in Clay Co. and owned land in Wayne Co. They had one son, John Wesley Allgood. Samuel lived only a short time after his son's birth. His widow married David Helton and moved to Webster Co. Mo.

To the Descendants of James Wilson and Elizabeth (Shore) Smith:

They came this way before us, each in his own way did what he could to make the road easier for us ----- Some people have the foresight to realize early in life that some written record of family history should be continued as the years go by, for the edification of our descendants, some of whom might some day be interested in knowing from whence they came. In my case, however, I grew up taking my parents and other relatives for granted, assuming they would always be around -- indefinitely. It was not until I reached the age of retirement, or that time of life when we have the time to pause and reflect; to look back to see where we have been; to revisit, at least in our mind's eye, the scenes of our youth; not until then did I begin to realize what I had missed in not being closer to these people responsible for my being here -- at least by written communication, since we always lived apart after we grew up. Nostalgia, evoked by these memories, is not only tinged with a degree of melancholy but is underlined by a fierce sense of pride, and it is this last that stirs us to some effort to keep the record straight and up-to-date.'

For a very comprehensive genealogical history of the antecedents of the family of James Wilson Smith and his wife, Elizabeth (Shore) Smith, our grandparents, we are indebted to a Dr. Clarence Shore, of Raleigh, North Carolina, and to the excellent records kept by the Moravian Church. Dr. Shore, in a letter dated December 17, 1930, furnished us the first documented records of the Shore (Schor) family, dating from 1706, and originating in or near MuttENZ, Switzerland. Dr. Shore's records follow the origin, then the emigrations, of Friedrich Schor and his wife Margreth, and their children, from Switzerland to America; a trip that required half a year from its beginning at Basel, Switzerland, to its ending at Philadelphia, via Cowes, England. This trip, as most trips in those days, was not without hardship and even tragedy -- an infant born to the Schors in Cowes, died when they were three weeks out on the way to America; its mother died seven weeks later at sea, in 1750.

The following, concerning the early years of the Schor family in America, is quoted from Mr. J. C. Kreeger, North Carolina. "Friedrich Schor and his children landed at Philadelphia in 1750 and came from there to America's oldest Moravian settlement at Bethabara, North Carolina, in 1756, settled at the Mill, on Muddy Creek, right near Bethabara. When Bethabara was laid out in 1759, Friedrich Schor and his son Heinrich were allowed a lot in the upper part of the village. Heinrich had the first two-story house in Bethania. This place was about three miles from Bethabara and is about eight miles from Winston-Salem, N. C. In 1792 a large tract of land was deeded to Friedrich by Lord Granville; this land was two or three miles northwest of Bethania, and I think his home was on this land, near, or on, Mill Creek. It is thought likely he died at this place, and may have been buried in a family graveyard right near his home. There were three graves on that land that had markers when I went to locate the place and one was a Schor child, but a number were not marked."

John Henry (Johann Heinrich) Schor, a great-grandson of Friedrich, emigrated from the area of Winston-Salem to "the Indiana," near Paoli, in 1827, accompanied by his wife Rebecca (Logan) Schor and their five children born in North Carolina. Six more children were born to John and Rebecca after their move to Indiana, and one of these, Elizabeth, born May 16, 1831, later became the mother of the Smith branch of Schor descendants.

At some time in the early 1940's another Dr. Shore, not the Dr. Clarence Shore mentioned at the beginning of this discourse, but this time Dr. John Shore, of Salem Springs, Illinois, wrote my father, John O. Smith of Carl Junction, Mo., requesting genealogical data concerning the family of the former Elizabeth Shore who had married James Wilson Smith in Indiana or possibly Illinois, sometime around 1849 or 1850. These two were Dad's parents so he was able to furnish Dr. Shore a fairly comprehensive record, compiled from the Family Bible, his memory and from inquiries he made to relatives in the area. (Dad and Dr. John Shore were cousins.) I understand that Dr. Shore forwarded this information to a Mr. J. C. Kreeger of Winston-Salem, N. C., another Shore descendant, who was compiling a book of Schor (Shore) genealogy. Following Dad's death in 1946, there was no more communication except for an inquiry to my sister Lucy from Mr. Kreeger, and then nothing definite since 1953. Lucy's last two inquiries were not answered, so we assume that both Dr. Shore and Mr. Kreeger passed away during this period. I decided to complete the family record of the descendants of James Wilson Smith and his wife Elizabeth (Shore) Smith, and append it to the Shore (Schor) genealogy already developed by the Drs. Shore and Mr. Kreeger. Since I have started, I have discovered several relatives I never knew before, and with their help have managed to round up most of the names, dates and places of births and deaths that are required to complete the record through the 8th generation of the descendants of Friedrich Schor, through the branch created by his 5th generation granddaughter Elizabeth, the seventh child of John Henry and Rebecca (Logan) Shore.

To the Recipients of this volume of Shore-Smith Genealogy:

This volume is not complete; part of the dates, places, etc., are still missing; they have not yet come in from our correspondents. The history portion has been written and rewritten several times; we think sometimes that we have all we can get, then without warning we stumble onto something else that forces a rewrite. But we cannot wait for the end; children are being born into some branch of the Family all the time; people are also leaving Family line-up all the time. We feel we should stop this publication now; later someone else can take it up where we leave off; let's hope it will go on for a long, long time.

Of course we cannot furnish a copy of this to every one in the whole Family; we are furnishing one copy to each 7th. generation branch of the Family of James W. Smith and his wife Elizabeth, or to the eldest surviving child of the 7th. generation. And to some who have helped us in gathering what we needed. Any others who desire copies are welcome to make copies of volumes in their Family.

We are asking those who receive these volumes to add all the information they have available of their own Families to this copy, and when they do have something to add, to please send me a copy of whatever they add so I can keep the Master copy up-to-date. When we consider the History part of this volume completed, we will send each of you a c

Thanks a lot: J.W. Smith
June 1977.

No genealogical record can be complete from figures alone; there must be some history also. In the history portion there have been several questions unanswered for some time, and our inability to provide these answers has slowed down the whole project. Most of the questions were fairly easily answered except for the most important -- we were sorely lacking in history, in facts, dates, places, etc., concerning the one person connecting the rest of us, the Smiths, the Allgoods and the Langstons to the Shore lineage; our grandmother Elizabeth Smith. We knew where and when she was born; that she was married to James Wilson Smith, the son of Martin Smith, about 1849 or 1850; apparently a year or two before her parents moved from near Paoli, Orange County, Indiana, to Clay County, Illinois.

The period of time in which we were particularly interested covered the years between 1830 and the present, and either genealogical or historical facts of this period were only to be obtained by patient search and a sifting and rearranging of these facts to make a credible story or account. At this late date no living family member is old enough to recall facts and happenings prior to 1900, so each step of this report is based on facts and figures obtained from written records in county courthouses, in libraries, from headstones, cemetery records, and a few bits of hearsay evidence from descendants.

The movements of the Schor side of this family have been very well documented, except for the absence of reasons why their emigrations were made; these would be interesting to know. But our interest from here on is in the Smith branch of this Swiss, or later "Pennsylvania Dutch" line, which actually started in Xenia, Illinois, with the marriage of James Wilson Smith and Elizabeth Shore there on August 1, 1850. There all eight of their children were born, and during the twenty-three years they lived there a longing to move on to a different place apparently developed, either from looking for a better living, or as some say, for a healthier climate. Memories of grandchildren differ; some say Aunt Martha's health was a problem, others that it was Grandmother who was troubled. Two of the children died in childhood; this might be an indication of some health problem. It may have been just an "itching foot" on the part of Granddad Smith; but he did bring his family to Missouri, and there he stopped, even though he may have been headed for Arkansas and the Springs.

We know little of their life in Xenia as the children grew up and can only guess the reason they left there. The oldest child, Henry Martin, grew up there; records show that he was married there in 1870 to Elizabeth Bales of Greenville, Tenn., and their first child, Effie Elmina, was born there in 1871. According to information furnished by his great-granddaughter, Elmina Alexander of Pittsburg, Kansas, Uncle Henry brought his wife and daughter from Xenia, Ill., to Missouri when the child was three years old, and settled near Webb City. This figured to be about 1873 or 1874, and gave us the first inkling we had of the year the Smiths came to Missouri, and a point from which to start. Following more than a year spent in interviewing, in examining old clippings, pictures, etc., tramping through cemeteries, visiting libraries and courthouses for examination of records, we have arrived at a reconstruction of events that shapes up like this:

By the time our Dad, John Oscar, was born, his parents had decided to make the move south and west to what promised to be a more healthy climate as soon as the season was right and the new child was old enough to make the trip. By the summer of 1872, Dad was some fifteen or sixteen months old, the season was right for their kind of travel, and the trip was probably made. The total distance from Xenia to Webb City was somewhere in the neighborhood of four hundred miles, and in continuing good weather they very likely made the trip in less than forty days. One story says that on the way down, when the family reached Rolla, Mo., which was then the southern end of the Frisco Railway, they were told that they could not go further south unless they agreed to haul some freight much needed in the area near Joplin and Webb City. Accordingly, Granddad loaded a pig which he brought down for someone else, and in Uncle Henry's wagon they brought some other kind of freight along. They arrived in the area near Webb City in the year 1873, as attested by this entry in the Jasper County Atlas of 1876: "James W. Smith - Farmer and Stock Raiser - Res. Section 23 - Nativity Orange County, Ind. - arrived in Jasper County in 1873." In their first year in this new country their youngest daughter, Bell Merissa, died and was buried in the Webb City Cemetery, now the Harmony Grove Cemetery. In December of this same year they purchased their first home in Missouri, located thus: "The NE $\frac{1}{4}$ of the NE $\frac{1}{4}$ of sect. 15, and the NE $\frac{1}{4}$ of the NE $\frac{1}{4}$ and the W $\frac{1}{2}$ of the NE $\frac{1}{4}$ of sect. 23, T 28 and R 33, totaling 160 acres," from Martin V. Moore and wife, for \$4,000. The largest part of this farm, 120 acres, today lies across the "Webb City Road" south of the Joplin Airport; the 40-acre piece is one mile north of Stone's Corner, on the west.

Uncle Henry was the only one of the children married at the time of the emigration; all the rest were at home except Francis Marion who had died in childhood. But they started leaving the nest, one by one, soon after they arrived here. The next in line, by age, was Uncle Isaac, but his sisters "got the jump" on him and both married before he did.

On July 1, 1877, Martha Ann married Francis Marion Allgood, a Virginian she met on the trip from Illinois, and they soon were established in Carl Junction. Apparently they lived there until about 1892 during which time their four sons were born. Shortly after 1892 they acquired from the estate of Lewis W. Allgood, father of Francis Marion, a tract of land, later known in the family as "the Silver Creek Farm," described legally as: the NE $\frac{1}{4}$ of the SW $\frac{1}{4}$ of sect. 25, T 27, R 33. The actual location is perhaps $\frac{3}{4}$ mile south and west of the intersection of Hwys. I-44 and 71 in southeast Joplin. Our cousin, Eva Alice (Nellie) Allgood was born on this farm in 1894. In 1906 Francis Marion Allgood died and was buried in the Carl Junction Cemetery. Martha sold the farm in 1899 and bought a home in Joplin in the vicinity of McClelland Park.

It was in this Joplin home that Nellie grew up and went to school. Aunt Martha's oldest son, James Louis, was killed in a mine cave-in near Joplin in 1912; this tragedy proved too much for his widow Grace; she lived only a year after her husband's death. Her one-year-old son Claude George, lived with his grandmother Martha during several of his growing-up years.

On September 30, 1877, Rebecca Alice married Samuel Davis, in Joplin. A Mr. McAbey, the same minister who married Francis M. and Martha, also married Samuel and Rebecca Alice. A son, George L., born to Aunt Alice in 1879, died in 1886, and was followed in death by his father Samuel in 1889. They are buried side by side in Harmony Grove Cemetery. On April 22, 1891, Aunt Alice married John Latta Langston of Bentonville, Ark., and I seem to remember them on a farm a little west and north of the road intersection at Bell Center. Others say they lived in Arkansas; my memory is probably at fault here. Their first two children are buried in the Carl Junction Cemetery; their third, Charles Lee, went to Texas as a young man and lived out his life there in or near Ranger. Aunt Alice and John L. spent the later years of their lives there also. Both died in Olden, Texas, in the early 30's and are buried there.

Uncle Isaac married Jane Ann Staley at Joplin, Mo., on March 9, 1879. They lived in Carl Junction all their lives; their young son, Arthur Winfield,

Dear Mrs Taylor-

Your kind note has been read, and I do appreciate your offer of help.

I have joined the Rushville endeavors for the sole purpose of perhaps getting added information for my own Family background. This would have to be the fact. Because I have been in Rushville repeatedly, and have searched repeatedly and all from scratch, may I indicate. The most of what is left to be discovered that is important to me is the following;

Bowling Green Cemetery; the data on all the stones. I have all except the grave of Huldah Dimmick Mother of Ebenezer of Pleasantview Village. Not, Huldah Gragg who m- JJ Eickle.

Huldah died 1863 Pleasantview-Lived in a Cottage on the Farm of her son-in-law Thomas Gragg. Deaths were not recorded then, but it should be in the paper.

Huldah's son Edmund Dimmick, unmarried; died May 1864. In 1860 census Edmund is listed with John Pickenpaugh's Family at Pleasantview.

John Pickenpaugh moved to Camden, Schuyler Co; I have no way of knowing if Edmund went with them. Probably not. Should be an account of him in the Paper.

The rest I have or don't actually have to get; As I now see it.

Had a letter from Mrs Walker who is a Davis, a very nice reply to my note to Dale Davis telling him that I have finally the most of the whole Davis background after 12 years of searching from Maine to Calif to England and Mass. Have 98% of the women backtracked also.

Also have the Dimmick Family which is far more voluminous, and far more Famous Historically.

This has been a pleasure doing, carried me to areas thruout the Country and most the outstanding Libraries. And has given me an intimate knowledge of Our Country and it's History.

The Ancestors have been in every War fought since the beginning So, I am deeply Patriotic and a Republican Ha!

Your local Library has a Book I don't find the name or Author But outlined much of it at one time because it was excellent for local History

The Author was a Mail Carrier during the time of Abraham Lincoln when he lived at NEW SALEM. This Book should be republished and sold by your Museum Group. It is in the Rushville Library Pub- before or near 1900 and is a personal account, and a good one of Life between Independence and Springfield. I became so interested in the Lincoln part- when doing research for our DYE Family of New Amsterdam and NJ, I found Abrahams Ancestors, and later the Homestead in Eastern Penna. So, I became involved. You do understand that Lincoln is in no way connected with me. I would like to have a copy of that Book tho-

Re: Dimmick Family.

Dear Madam:

We have again made search of our records for certain items requested, but really fail to come up with answers to your requests.

You made inquiry regarding estate records for death date of George Phillips and John W. Starr, and we do not find records on these. You mention Huldah Dimmick, mother of Ebenezer was living with Thomas Gragg near Pleasantview. Some time ago Mrs. Cassady had made research regarding Teel Nelson Star family, and in her request she asked for marriage of one Mary Nelson to John Gregg, and inasmuch as you mentioned John W. Starr, whom we failed to locate, we thought we'd send this along to see whether or not the two of you might in any way be helpful to one another.

We do not find any record of insanity proceedings for Edmund. If he died in 1864, then that is too early for our records (begin in 1877, but not until 1916 were they required to register each death).

Again, with Xerox, we fail to keep a good record of what is mailed to the individual. We enclose excerpt regarding Ebenezer Dimmick from Old Plat book, and there is probate proceedings for one Ebenezer Dimmick, deceased, in Schuyler County.

The 1850 Census lists certain Dimmicks, - among which is Ebenezer, who was then 46, and his first wife Margaret along with children and Edmund who was 49. Also the family of Joseph Dimmick, had a son Ebenezer, who was 12 in 1850.

There are probate proceedings for Sarah Dimmick (second wife), and Affidavit of Decease gives death date to be October 14, 1902. She mentions in her will, children of deceased brother, Joseph Lord, so we feel this is the Sarah Lord Dimmick, whom you are tracing.

We also give to you Xerox death records for Sarah Dimmick and Ebenezer.

Record search has taken some little time, and we will appreciate remittance of the sum of $5.00 for record search and copies enclosed.

Thanking you, I am,

Very truly yours,

CAPT. J. W. DIMMICK DEAD

A Schuylerite by Birth, But for 35 Years
He Lived at Montgomery, Ala.

On Monday Henry Rotes of Pleasantview received news of the death of Capt. Joseph Wesley Dimmick, which occurred at Montgomery, Alabama, on July 15th. Capt. Dimmick was born at Pleasantview, and he made frequent trips to the old home, and was here three years ago to meet with the friends of his boyhood days. The following notice of his death is taken from the Montgomery Advertiser of the 16th:

Death claimed one of the pioneer citizens of Montgomery when Captain Joseph Wesley Dimmick passed away at his residence, 435 Clayton street, at 10:40 o'clock last night after an illness of several months.

Living to the ripe age of 73 years, Captain Dimmick was engaged in active life until a few months before his death, having been prominently connected with many enterprises of the city. He was clerk of the United States Court for the Middle District of Alabama for thirty consecutive years. He was confined to his home about December 1st last year, and on account of continued ill health resigned his clerkship during the early part of the year and was succeeded by Colonel Harvey E. Jones.

The deceased was born at Pleasantview, Ill., Oct., 6, 1838. He enlisted in the 6th Illinois Regiment as a private at the beginning of the civil war, and afterwards was made first lieutenant. After the war he came to Montgomery and has since resided here.

Captain Dimmick was postmaster for eight years, having been appointed under Grant's administration. At one time he was owner of the street railway system of the city; and was at different periods of his life president of the following industries: The water works of the city, the gas company, the Montgomery Foundry and the First National Bank. He was one of the organizers of the First National Bank, and during his subsequent life was one of the directors

Pioneer in Mineral Field

He was a pioneer in the development of the mineral industry of the state, owning large interests in the iron industry in Birmingham. He was also joint owner of great land interests of northern Alabama.

Captain Dimmick was a benefactor to the state in turning the wealth which he had amassed from the various enterprises with which he was connected back to the further development of Alabama.

He was prominent in political affairs of the state, being a leader of the Republican party in the state. However while belonging to that party, which was in the minority in Alabama, he was never antagonistic nor offensive to the Democrats and was highly respected and esteemed by all. He was prominent also in church affairs, being a vestryman in the Church of the Holy Comforter.

On his coming to Alabama after the war between the states, Captain Dimmick was married to Miss Anna Savage. He reared a family in Alabama and his son, J. P. Dimmick, is at present postmaster. He is survived by his wife and three daughters, Mrs. Albert F. Wilson, Miss Margaret W. Dimmick and Miss Annie May Dimmick.

or, August 8, 1881, and has one hundred and sixty acres of good land in a line of cultivation. Politically, he is a republican.

S. FLITCROFT is a native of St. Lawrence county, N. Y., and was born near Ogdensburg, on the St. Lawrence river, September 4, 1837. He is a son of James and Bricea (Snider) Flitcroft, both of whom were also natives of New York. His mother died in 1863 and father in 1873.

When Mr. Flitcroft was twenty-one years old he embarked in the boating and lumbering business on the St. Lawrence river and followed his business quite successfully for several years. He piloted the boats for about eight years, and subsequently worked at the mason trade in Illinois for some years. He also spent six years in Butler county, Iowa, and now in Franklin county, Nebr., in the fall of 1874 and took a homestead in section 14 township. He was among the first settlers, not a tree or a house being in sight. Wild game was plentiful, and he could see from two hundred to five hundred antelope in a drove. The times were hard but the people in those days were plucky, happy and contented. He was married January 3, 1857, to Miss Helen Call, a native of Jefferson county, N. Y., and born in 1837. Seven children have been born to this union—Charles, Emma, Augustus, Edward, Oscar, Annie and Jane, all deceased except Edward. His second marriage Mr. Flitcroft took on April 5, 1879, to Rebecca E. Jackson, daughter of Robert and Lucy Jackson. She was born in Illinois, June 25, 1863. Two children have resulted from this marriage—Helen J. (deceased) and Byron D. Mr. Flitcroft has one hundred and sixty acres of choice land, all under good cultivation. He was elected county commissioner in the fall of 1877 and served three years. He organized and named several of the townships in the county, and was one of the most active and popular officials the county has had for some time. He is a republican and a prominent and active member of the Farmers' Alliance.

JAMES M. DIMMICK is a successful farmer residing in Logan township, Franklin county. He is a native of Schuyler county, Ill., and is one of a family of nine children, born to Ebenezer and Margaret (Phillips) Dimmick, the former of whom was a New Yorker by birth, and the latter a native of Ohio. The father was born in Oneida county, N. Y., in 1803. When a young man he moved to Ohio, where he married, and in 1834 went to Illinois, settling in Schuyler county, where he subsequently lived and died. He was a man of diversified pursuits and extensive interests. Starting as a farmer, he became a merchant and in later years officiated as a class leader. He established the town of Pleasant View, in Schuyler county, was the first merchant of the place, and the first postmaster, which office he held from 1861 to 1882. He was always a prominent citizen of his community and a leader in religious matters, having been an active member of the church for sixty-eight years, and his house was always open to the pioneer preacher. He was twice married and the father of nine children—all, however, by the first marriage.

The subject of this notice was reared in his native county, growing up on the farm, and receiving an ordinary common-school education. At the age of eighteen he entered the Union army, enlisting May 24, 1861, in Company G, Sixteenth Illinois volunteer infantry, was ordered at once to the front and served with the armies of the Southwest. He served mostly with the army of the Cumberland, and took part in all the engagements participated in by that army. He served out the term of his enlistment and was mustered out at Chattanooga, Tenn., in May, 1864, when he returned home. By an accident, he received a severe injury to one eye, and was once sick in a hospital, but with these exceptions he came off unscathed, doing a soldier's duty during his entire term of service. After returning to Illinois he engaged for a few years in farming, and then went to sawmilling, and followed this till 1873, when he moved to Nebraska, and settled in Franklin county, in August, 1873. He filed a homestead claim at that date on the southeast quarter of section 6, township 3, range 14 west. In 1877 he located a timber claim in the same section, making him three hundred and twenty acres. He began with a wagon and team, his household goods, one pig and a few chickens, and, as may well be imagined, he had for the first few years a hard time of it. He lost a few crops in consequence of the grasshopper invasions and drought, but on the whole, did well and has prospered in recent years. He is regarded now as one of the most successful farmers of his township, and the order and neatness of everything on his farm gives evidence of the industry, system and good management that prevail there.

Mr. Dimmick has from the beginning been identified with the best interests of his locality, and has taken an active part in the affairs of his township. He has been township treasurer two terms, and at all times a member of the school board in one capacity or another. He belongs to the Grange and the Alliance and in politics is a republican. He is an active member of the Methodist church and a strong supporter of all church organizations.

He married Annie E. Hamilton, a daughter of James T. and Malinda Hamilton, natives of Virginia and emigrants to Illinois at an early day. Mrs. Dimmick's parents are still living, being residents of the the newly made State of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Dimmick have seven children, all girls—Nottie J., Malinda, Margaret, Enola, Emmarette, Theodosia and Mary A.

MICHAEL HUFFMAN, one of the most highly respected men of Franklin county, Nebr., was born in Bourbon county, Ky., February 10, 1826. His father moved to Brown county, Ill., in 1833, was a farmer and blacksmith by occupation, and died in 1872. Our subject engaged in farming when he became of age, and has stuck to it ever since. He came to Franklin county, Nebr., in the fall of 1875, took a homestead and was one of the first settlers in the county. He lived in a sod house and shared fully in the vicissitudes of the early pioneers, having had his crops destroyed by the grasshoppers and laboring under other disadvantages common to the early settlement of a new country. When he came there were plenty of antelope, but the buffalo were beginning to disappear.

Mr. Huffman was married January 21, 1847, the lady of his choice being Miss Sarah Shelly, a native of Indiana. To this happy union there have been born nine children, namely—Henry, born May 23, 1848; Elizabeth, born December 26, 1849; Mary A., born November 19, 1853 (deceased); Sarah A., born June 3, 1855; Eli, born June 23, 1859; Harriet A., born April 6, 1863; Charles, born April 10, 1865, and Bordella, born August 8, 1867 (deceased), and a boy that died unnamed when eight days old.

Mr. Huffman has belonged to the Masonic organization since 1859, and is also a devoted member of the Methodist Episcopal church. He has two hundred and forty acres of choice land, which is well timbered and has plenty of fruit growing on it.

In 1850 Mr. Huffman, with the great rush of gold seekers, went to California with an ox-team, and in the spring 1852 returned by the way of Panama, having done fairly well. From 1867 to 1872 he was engaged in the milling business, with his brother Henry, in Schuyler county, Ill., on Crooked creek. His failing health was the cause of withdrawal, but he never gave up farming. The mill which they

She was one of the pioneer women of Schuyler, having come to this county in 1836 with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer Dimmick, who made their home at Pleasantview. Here she was married to J. C. Dupuy in 1847, and to this union was born eight children—Mary Jane, William, Geo. Washington, Ebenezer, Samuel Taylor, John Wesley, James Harrison and Elizabeth. Miss Jennie Gorsuch Died Friday

Jennie Gorsuch, daughter of Nicholas and Jane Gorsuch, was born on the old farm home Oct. 8, 1859, and entered into her heavenly home July 14, 1911, in the fifty-second year of her age.

In her early girlhood she was converted and joined the M. E. church at Houston, where she retained her membership until moving to Rushville, when she united with the First M. E. church of this city. She loved the church and Sunday school, and so far as her health permitted was a regular attendant on all the means of grace.

Jennie possessed in an eminent degree the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit. Those who knew her best loved most. As a daughter, sister and friend her faithfulness and sacrifice knew no bounds. She lived for others without a thought of self or selfish interests. No one ever heard an unkind or uncharitable word from her lips. Her life was an illustration of the "charity which thinketh no evil; the charity which never faileth."

During her long months of illness she was patient, cheerful and brave. Loving hearts and willing hands did all that human skill could do to save her life but in vain.

Besides her many friends who mourn her loss she leaves an aged mother, Mrs. Jane Gorsuch, and three sisters—Mrs. Ida Johnson of Fort Scott, Texas, Mrs. Carrie Jaynes and Mrs. Fannie Everhart of Rushville, and one brother, William of Leote, Kansas.

7-20-11

The funeral was conducted by Rev. Bonis of the First M. E. church, and appropriate music furnished by the choir, then accompanied by a large number of neighbors and friends, she was laid to rest beside her father and brother in the quiet peaceful cemetery of Sugar Grove.

TAKEN TO QUINCY FOR BURIAL

James Jacob Carey, Who Died at Macomb, Was Buried at Quincy Saturday

James Jacob Carey, who died at Macomb on Wednesday of last week, where he had been taken to St. Francis hospital for a surgical operation, was buried at Quincy on Saturday. In last week's Times it was stated that Dr. Harvey accompanied him to the hospital, when it should have been Dr. A. W. Ball.

Mr. Carey, who was employed as butcher in James Robertson's shop, came to Rushville from Quincy, and the following sketch of his life is taken from the Quincy Herald:

"Mr. Carey was a butcher. He was born in this city, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carey, and was 48 years, 11 months and 30 days, lacking just one day of completing the 49th year of his life. He was united in marriage to Miss Emma Miller on November 25, 1890. Besides the wife he leaves three children, John William, George Edward and Emma Catherine, all at home. He also leaves three sisters, Mrs. Herman Hollender and Mrs. Marie Cunningham of Quincy, and Miss Julia Carey of Kansas City, Kansas.

"James Carey is better known in Quincy as 'Jim' Carey or 'Long Jim,' the butcher who for fifteen years was employed by Henry Voight and who was a familiar figure on the streets and about the butcher shop on Eleventh and Main streets.

"Long Jim" was one of the biggest men in Quincy, and his friends—and one of his firmest friends is Henry Voight—say that his heart was as big as his body. He was six feet and three inches in height and weighed 200 pounds. He was jovial of disposition and was popular with employees and associates. Carey was also well known for his feats of strength. One of his favorite tricks was to take an empty beer keg and throw it over the back of his head. He claimed to have the record for long distance throwing in this unique event. At every picnic which Carey attended he was asked to display his peculiar prowess in this manner.

"Carey also was something of an amateur pugilist. He was a familiar figure at Sunday picnics, where he would take on all comers, especially strangers. As a general thing the Quincy giant found his victims easy. Above all Jim Carey was known for the friends he made. They mourn his death sincerely. Several years ago he went to Rushville and there he has been following his trade as butcher."

In Memory of Fatima Faye (Jenkins) Allgood

My grandmother was a very special lady. When her youngest of ten was approximately four years of age, her husband John Oscar Allgood succumbed to death following a long illness. With the help of her oldest children, perseverance, and determination, Mrs. Faye Allgood raised all living children to adulthood. She lost one son to war, several children to cancer, one son in a car wreck, etc. She once told me the hardest thing she ever had to do was to bury her own children. Grandma Faye was a very strong woman. Whenever any of her children or grandchildren needed her, she was there. Her descendants now number very near or over 100. They are scattered all across the United States. Grandmother was born on November 6, 1894 in Galena, Kansas to Millie Catherine (McCoy) Jenkins and David Madison Jenkins. She married John Oscar Allgood on December 23, 1910 in Joplin, Missouri. The couple resided in Joplin and Galena for a time, then later moved to Douthat, Oklahoma where they resided until Grandfather Allgood passed away in 1935. Later, she moved to Commerce, Oklahoma where she resided until she could no longer stay at home by herself. Grandmother passed away November 4, 1990. Grandmother was very special to all of her grandchildren, and we all wanted every bit of attention she could give to us. Most of the time, grandmother got to help me celebrate my birthday on New Year's Day. Sometimes, I would share her with my cousin Gaylene, who was born on January 2. One day as grandmother and I passed through Galena on our way to see my cousin Donny's kids, grandma said, "You know, I only wish I had spent more time finding out about my family as much as I had my husband's family." Grandmother was very proud that she had come from Galena, Kansas. Her grandmother had moved to Galena, Kansas with two of her children, Lizzie and David in 1875 so there was a long history in Galena, Kansas. Grandma Faye's father was a jackman. His name and profession are listed in one of the directories in the Galena Mining Museum. Many people in many locations for numerous years helped build and compile this information on the Allgood-Jenkins-Smith genealogy. No genealogy is ever complete. Grandma told me that she hoped her family would not grow apart after she passed away. To any of grandmothers' nephews, nieces, children, and grandchildren, I encourage you to write memories of mom and grandmother and send them to the Galena Historical and Genealogical Society at Galena, Kansas or to the Genealogy Section at the Joplin Public Library, Joplin Missouri and help keep this special ladies' memory alive. Just write down special memories that you have of grandmother and send to these libraries mentioned above so that her memory will remain for generations to come. Please note on the letter that it be included in the Allgood-Smith-Jenkins file. May God Bless and Keep each of you safe in his loving, tender care.
